I first started working with Troy around 4 years ago. I would recommend Troy not only as a coach but also as a mentor to young players. I can only speak from personal experience but I have had nothing but good experience working with Troy. He has a knack of not over complicating things as a coach and brings everything back to basics regardless what level of player he is coaching. Personally that is what I enjoy the most. Saying that though Troy knows the technical side of the game very well. His balance of not only having a tremendous amount of knowledge the technical side of the game along with his laid back approach I believe gets the best out of his players.
